Editor's Note

Nowadays, the art of handwriting is slowly diminishing. Everything is written by chromebooks and computers. I want to reignite the art by doing a magazine that surrounds handwriting.

This magazine restricts writing or typing on a computer and allows people to write using just a pencil and a paper. I hope this inspires others to not give up handwriting. Thank You

The Golden Robot Man

By: J. AYAN

It was a fine evening in Downtown Toronto. Office buildings were getting empty. The CN Tower was beautifully lit, the Toronto Art gallery started getting more viewers, and the streets were filled with local people and tourists.

Dundas Square was crowded with local people, cheering someone on. That someone was a guy in a golden suit with robotic movements. His name was TGRM (The Golden Robot Man). He stood on a small wooden box and moved exactly like a robot. He even had unique movements for his robot-like sounds. He had a grim face like all robots. He also had a golden hat and a pair of golden shoes. It was tough for a few people to believe he was a living person.

The crowd formed a semi-circle, cheering for each of TGRM's amusing robotic movements. There were a couple of senior citizens, a few kids, loads of teens, and a small number of adults. Everyone was looking happy, laughing in tears, and taking pictures of humorous TGRM.

While everyone was enjoying the show, there was a boy at the end of the crowd with a frown. He was wearing dirty black pants and a torn gray sweater, he had blue eyes and blond hair partly covered by a wool hat. His part of the cheering crowd was limited. He was certainly not enjoying the show. Each thinking about how hard he should be studying to take care of his family, and how hard he should be working to give comfort to his parents.

It was almost 11:00 PM and he was getting hungry. The crowd slowly diminished. It was time to go home. TGRM started packing up. There was not a single person except for the kid and TGRM. TGRM approached the kid with his belongings in a bag and told him

"My dear son, it's late. Let's go home and have dinner!"

The kid replies, "Yes Dad. It's very cold. Let's go home."

Israel and Hamas War 10/24

On October 7th, 2023, thousands of armed Hamas terrorists broke through the Gaza Strip and invaded Southern Israel with a surprise attack. They invaded the towns while shooting, burning, and killing everything in sight. Over 1,400 people died and around 230 have been taken hostage.

What is Hamas?

Hamas is a Palestinian terrorist group that has had control of the Gaza Strip since 2007. The group's primary purpose is the downfall of Israel and an Islamic state to be replaced in its place. Hamas was founded 1987 and is funded by many taxed goods in Gaza with also help from Iran and Qatar. There is estimated to be around 20,000-25,000 members in Hamas.

Why is this happening now?

Hamas officials stated that the attack was motivated by the growing anger from the Israeli policy, including recent outbreaks of terrorism at the Al-Aqsa Mosque in Jerusalem, but mainly over the discrimination of Palestinians and expansion of Israeli settlements.

What will happen next?

Currently, as of right now Israeli is at war with Hamas and is fighting just as aggressive. As the war goes on relentless bombings on civilian buildings are getting more extreme. Over 6,000 Palestinians have been killed and 2,000 of them being children. Israeli officials vow to destroy Hamas before it gets out of hand by stopping their supply of food, water, medicine, etc. to the Gaza Strip.

Summary

The Israeli and Hamas War has just started and has already caused thousands of deaths. President Biden has urged congress to send $14 billion in military aid. He has expressed that Hamas represents only a small percent of the Palestinian population and is pushing for humanitarian assistance.

A Step Towards Successful Schooling: By Vedh Soppamma

The school environment plays a subtle yet crucial role in shaping children's emotional well-being and mental health. Research has shown that a positive school atmosphere, characterized by supportive teachers, engaged peers, and a safe and inclusive setting, significantly contributes to students' overall psychological development. When children feel emotionally supported at school, they are more likely to have higher self-esteem, improved perseverance, and better coping skills.

In contrast, negative experiences such as bullying or harsh disciplinary action can have detrimental effects on their mental health. Moreover, the quality of relationships within the school community is essential for fostering emotional well-being. When teachers prioritize building strong connections with their students and create a space of trust and respect, children feel valued and understood. This sense of belonging promotes positive emotions and helps prevent feelings of isolation and anxiety.

In conclusion, promoting positive outcomes for all students requires a multi-faceted approach, including creating a positive school culture, providing mental health resources, supporting teachers, and fostering parent involvement.

MESSI

Hello! my name is Shrimath Suresh and today I will be writing about Messi. Messi was born in Rosario Argentina on June 24 1987 as a kid he was interested in soccer. Messi had always been small for his age, so he had to take a special medicine, but the medicine was too expensive, so a coach from Spain made a deal that he would pay for the medicine if Messi played for him. Messi and his family agreed, so when Messi was 13 he moved to Spain with his dad. Messi didn't like it there that much because he missed the rest of his family, but he made the best of it. MESSI played for 3 different teams in FC Barcelona between 2000-2003. In 2004 he played his first match, and in 2005 he scored his first goal and he was the youngest player to do so on his team. Although Messi was a Spanish citizen, but he played for Argentina too, and in 2006 he led his team to the world cup finals, but lost 0-4 to a German team. After Messi lost 3 matches in a row he decided to retire, but his fans were upset, so they gave him a push. Messi is a very good soccer player, and will go through anything, but above all else is his skill. So let me hear you say Messi, Messi, Messi.

HOW TO EDIT VIDEOS IN 5 EASY STEPS

1. Find a editing software to use to create a video. There are many softwares out there for editing like Climpchamp, Adobe Premiere Pro and capcut. Just choose the one that suits you the best and download the software.
2. Once you have a editing software downloaded, start a new video project and upload all your audio and video files you have there.
3. Don't like some of the bits you recorded? well, not a problem! Firstly, drag all your files into the blank area which is usually below the Video length bar. Then, organize the files the order you want them in. Then, think of you video file as a carrot. Split the carrot into two at the starting part of the stuff you do not want. Then take the second part of carrot and cut this piece at the end part of the clip you do not want in the video. Now, you've separated the part you do not want so all you have to do is throw it out! And boom! The part you do not want is gone! Do that for every single part you do not want in your video! However, do merge the files you still want back together or your video is going to have a few empty spots!

4. Add some music to really set the mood and match the vibe! Everyone loves music right? Adding some to a video is what makes it next level and make everyone wanna watch it!

5. Click Export! Then just wait for it to do so and Boom! You have a finished video product in your library!

As you keep on making videos, try to keep on improving them by making one improvement at a time.

Deforestation

Art by Keirsh

Article by Rvkan

Deforestation, the process of cutting down trees on a large scale, is something that needs to be talked about. It's been happening for a while, and it's affecting our planet in significant ways. Let's break it down and discuss how it can be prevented.

Trees are like our planet's lungs. They absorb carbon dioxide, the stuff we don't want in the atmosphere, and give us oxygen we need to breathe. When people cut down trees, it is causing an imbalance in this process. Less oxygen for us, more carbon dioxide which causes climate change.

Trees are not just to beautify places; they help prevent soil erosion, keeping our soil in place, and they're crucial for the water cycle, which is responsible for producing good rain patterns. Without them, we'll see more floods, dirtier water, and a higher risk of mudslides.

All in all, the process of deforestation has some serious consequences, from negatively impacting our air to harming wildlife, causing soil erosion, and disturbing people's livelihood. When we take away forests, we disrupt the Earth.

The Toyota AE86

The Toyota AE86 is a very famous car known from the Manga series and Anime series Initial D. This is one of the reasons why this car is so popular. Another reason why it is so popular, was because of its handling, driving, racing, and incredible legacy. The show Initial D or Manga was very old, started in the 1980s and appeared on Weekly Young Magazine from 1995 to 2013. This spectacle of a car was very expensive because of the recognizable pop up headlights which were pretty distinct in this car. This car also inspired some modern cars between the brands Toyota and Subaru, which inspired to make the Toyota GT86, Scion FRS, and Subaru BRZ. The engine for this car had a 1.6 L 4A-L 14 50HC. This car is legendary now, it was also legendary back then.

Chapter 1

MIGRATION

- First people came around 38,000 BCE (BEFORE the COMMON ERA)

- NOMADIC HUNTER GATHERERS are people who move place to place relying on wild plants and animals.

- First people started out in Africa but thousands of years later they made their way to Asia

- When a group of people move from one place to another its called MIGRATION

THE ICE AGE AND THE BERING LAND BRIDGE

- Nomadic Hunter Gatherers lived during the ICE AGE which was a time where most of the Earth was covered in ice and seas were frozen over

- Since the seawater was frozen ocean levels were lower which revealed land underneath and between Asia and current day Alaska, there was the BERING LAND BRIDGE

- Over in America there was many animals like woolly mammoths but around 10,500 BCE the ice age had ended causing oceans to rise sealing the Bering land bridge and killing or moving animals from the ice age

- Many Nomads left in Asia ^{created} individual CULTURES which is the 'society' behaviours and its system of beliefs, laws and education
